PUBLIC WORKS

Staff are continuing to work on developing the street paving schedule for this spring. Construction work continues on the Cherry Street Community Development Block Grant project, as weather permits.

Weldon Reynolds in the Engineering office has been scanning plans of city buildings and facilities for use with the energy audit that is currently underway. Tours are being scheduled for city buildings and facilities with representatives from Ameresco, Inc. in regard to the energy audit.

Staff worked extensively on putting information and estimates together for the city's recent submittal of applications for economic stimulus funding. Work is continuing with the City's landfill consultant on a possible methane recovery project.

SENIOR CENTER

The Plantation Band and The Two Rivers Band entertained forty-nine seniors on February 17 and 24 at the senior dance held at Rangeley Ruritan Building.

The Senior Center transported the nutrition site participants to Danville for a short day trip on February 17. The group shopped and then ate lunch at Libby Hill Seafood.

For the Children, Inc. performed a blood pressure and blood sugar screening for seventeen seniors on February 18. Summitt Medical conducted a Community Diabetes Day on February 20. Thirty-two seniors attended this event. Both screenings were held at the Senior Center.

The Senior Supper Club met on February 19 at Walsh's Chicken and More. Seven seniors attended.

To round out the week, Office Associate Donna Harris contacted vendors for the upcoming Health Fair. Ms. Harris also completed a First Aid and CPR course taught by the Public Safety office.

ELECTRIC

Employees with the Electric department completed twelve energy audits last week. These audits are free to city residents. This helps residents understand where they might be losing energy and what may be causing an increase in their electric bills. Any city resident interested in an energy audit may contact the Electric Department at 276-403-5183.
